Custom Belt Order Sizing Guide.

1. If you want your name centered in the middle of the back of your belt, the best way is to wrap a soft tape measure around your waist and run it through your belt loops and round to the nearest inch.
 - a. If you don't have a soft tape measure, take a piece of rope or string of some kind and mark out where it meets in the middle. Once marked, you can measure the piece to the marked spots with a regular tape measure.
2. You can also measure your current belt from the center of the fold in your belt (where it folds over your buckle) to the most used hole in your belt. Note that if your belt has already contoured and bent to your waist, it will be more accurate to try the first method.
3. If you are unable to do either the first or the second method, here is a sizing chart based on your pant size. However, it is highly recommended to use one of the first two methods.

Pant Size	Buckle to Center Hole	Belt Length (total strap)	Center Hole to tail End
